ANNUAL REPORT

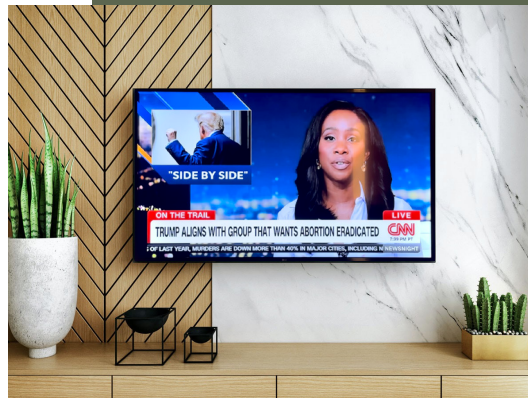

HIGHLIGHTED IN THIS REPORT

As 2024 comes to a close, join us in looking back at all the Lord has done with and through The Danbury Institute since its launch 10 months ago. Still just shy of a first year anniversary, The Danbury Institute has seen positive progress on multiple fronts in 2024 including a policy change to protect children from transgender trafficking, legislation to keep men out of women's restrooms, the defeat of a treacherous pro-abortion measure in Florida, the launch of a weekly news brief and a podcast, new partnerships with churches around the nation, and the initiation of the Leland Project to help equip churches in building biblical worldview and cultural engagement teams, among much more. Our team is grateful for this robust launch and ready to embrace 2025.

- Defeat of transgender trafficking policy in Maine

- Life & Liberty Brief + Life & Liberty Podcast launch

THE
INSTITUTE

CNN devoted a 9-minute segment to The Danbury Institute's desire to end abortion and President Trump's comments about standing side-by-side Christians in defending life & liberty

OFFICIAL LAUNCH FEBRUARY 29, 2024

“Churches, Christian leaders unite to form The Danbury Institute, advocating for religious liberty and life”

THE CHRISTIAN POST

“

We welcome The Danbury Institute to the battle raging in our country to preserve faith, family and freedom. The future of America will be bleak indeed if we are ripped out of the rich soil of Judeo-Christian civilization, which is rooted in the Bible.

WINNING FOR LIFE & LIBERTY

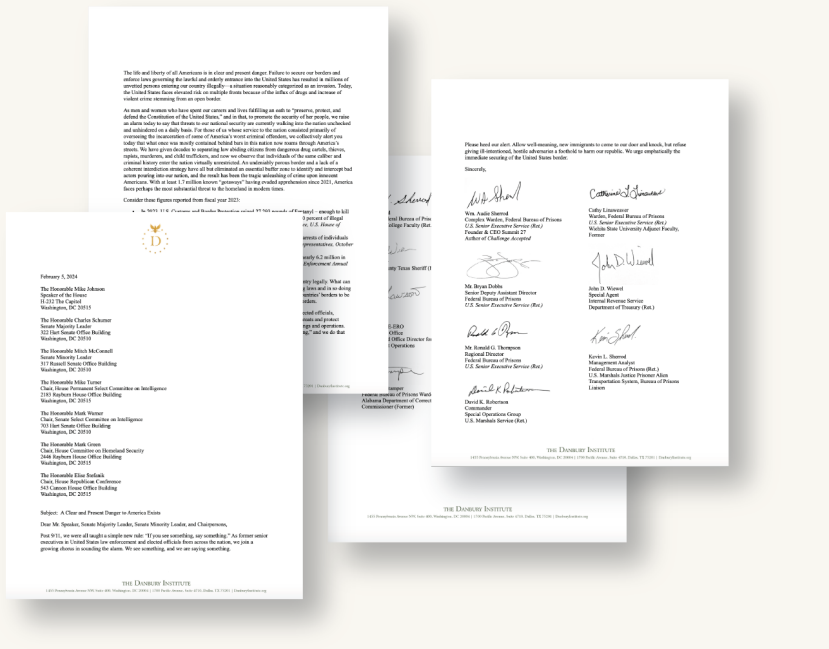

When Gov. Mike DeWine vetoed a measure passed by the legislature that would have protected children from transgender treatment and kept men out of women's sports and locker rooms, The Danbury Institute encouraged citizens to voice their support for an override of that veto in keeping with their Judeo-Christian values. In a similar effort, The Danbury Institute saw a judiciary committee in Maine recently end consideration of a bill that would have allowed the state to take a child away from parents if the parents declined to allow the child to receive "gender affirming care."

Representatives of The Danbury Institute gathered with thousands for the March for Life this January in Washington, D.C. Championing the sanctity of life takes on a new face post-Roe, and the church is needed in a most serious way to guide America back to a culture of life.

ADVOCATING FOR CHRISTIAN VALUES FROM THE BORDER TO THE HALLS OF CONGRESS

Representatives from The Danbury Institute met with law enforcement officers and military personnel in Eagle Pass, Texas, to gain a firsthand understanding of the situation at the U.S. border. After those meetings, The Danbury Institute helped produce a letter from former federal agents drawing attention to the humanitarian crisis and national security risks associated with an open border and hand delivered it to congressional leaders.

700+ PASTORS, LEADERS ATTEND INAUGURAL EVENT

More than 700 pastors and Christian leaders gathered for The Danbury Institute's inaugural event this June in Indianapolis, Indiana, where they heard encouragement to stand for truth in the public square from a Evangelist Tim Lee, The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary President Albert Mohler, Ambassador Sam Brownback, and Congressman Mark Walker, among many others. Now president-elect Donald J. Trump also sent recorded remarks for the gathering highlighting his intent to stand with Christians in defense of innocent life, religious liberty, and America's founding principles.

RESOURCES & CHURCH ENGAGEMENT

The Life & Liberty Brief can be found on The Danbury Institute's YouTube channel, and the Life & Liberty Podcast is available on both YouTube and all major podcast platforms.

The Danbury Institute team is working diligently to make every gain possible in standing for life and liberty, especially in light of the time-bound political reprieve given in the election of a pro-family, pro-children, pro-faith administration. Danbury is working in partnership with churches to train Christians in forming a biblical worldview that can and must shape Christian opinion and involvement in biblical matters that touch the political sphere.
